The problem (why this exists)

Every wedding band says the same thing: unforgettable, unique, showstopping. After the fifth Instagram reel, they all blur into one.

You've probably already spent hours scrolling through band after band, video after video, trying to picture how each one would actually feel on the day. It's meant to be exciting, but somewhere around the twentieth open tab it starts to feel like a task rather than a treat. And because it's your wedding, a day you don't get to run twice, every choice starts to carry weight.

What if you pick wrong? What if the dancefloor stays empty? What if it's just fine instead of unforgettable?

The real question isn't which band looks good on paper. It's which one actually suits the day you're picturing, the songs you love, and the way you want your guests to feel when they hit the dancefloor.

That's what this is for.

How it works

1. Tell us the vibe A few quick questions about the atmosphere you want on your wedding day and the songs that get you excited. No music theory required, just what you're picturing.

2. Get your match We calculate a genuine match score and match you with the band whose style fits what you told us, ceremony and drinks through to the last dance. You'll walk away knowing exactly what type of live band to look for instead, so this is worth your time either way.

3. Book a quick call If you want to see the band in action, you have the opportunity to book a call with us at the end. No pressure. We'll check availability and take it from there.

What's waiting for you

Boujee's bands aren't available anywhere else. Every one has been built from scratch, from the setlists to the arrangements, and is exclusive to Boujee.

Your match isn't just a band name. It's a proper look at the style that suits you: the acoustic roaming set that works table to table during drinks, the swing and jazz that make dinner feel effortless, the show band that keeps the dancefloor full until the last song. You'll see why it fits, hear it, and know exactly what your evening could feel like.

Objection handling (mini-FAQ, place lower on the page)

Will I get a sales pitch straight away? No. You'll get your match first, with an explanation of why it suits you. What happens after that is entirely up to you.

We're still deciding between a live band and a DJ. Is this for us? Yes, if live music is even a small part of what you're picturing. If you're already set on a DJ with no live element, this quiz probably isn't for you, and we'll tell you that plainly rather than wasting your time.

Do we need to have a venue booked already? No. This works whether you've booked everything or you're still figuring out the date.

Is there a catch? No. You'll get a real result either way. If Boujee turns out to be the right fit too, that's a bonus, not the point of the quiz.

Headline: Ready to find your match? Subhead: Two minutes. One genuinely calculated match.

DJ soft-exit screen (shown if Q1 = "A DJ, no live music")

Headline: We'll be honest with you.

Body: Boujee is a live band agency through and through. Every act we work with is exclusive to us, and we don't offer DJs. If a DJ is what you're picturing for the whole day, we're probably not the right fit, and we'd rather tell you that now than waste your time.

But if live music is even a small part of the dream, that's exactly what this is for.

Door-back-in button: Actually, show me what live band could suit us Secondary link: No thanks, that's not for us.
