

Boujee Quiz — Confirmed Song List

Replaces the placeholder songs in Q4 (daytime) and Q6 (evening). Each song is tagged to the band(s) it routes to.

How the tags work

Single-tag songs route to one band — a pick adds one to that band's tally on its path.

Overlap songs (shown in purple, e.g. "UTSD + VS") genuinely suit both bands. How they should count in the tally and the match percentage is the one open question below — either way they're still quoted back in the results copy for personalisation.

Songs are shown per path. The daytime list appears only on the daytime path, the evening list only on the evening path; on the all-day path each half is scored independently off its own list. ("Shut Up and Dance" appears on both paths on purpose — it works for Rock & Strollers in the day and as a UTSD/VS crowd song in the evening; the paths never mix, so there's no clash.)

One decision needed from you

The overlap songs suit two bands each, so they need a rule for how they count toward the winning band and the percentage. Two options, both keeping the song quoted back in the result either way — whichever is easier to build:

Option 1 (personalisation only): overlap picks don't move the tally or the percentage; the band is decided by the single-tag picks (atmosphere answer breaks a tie or stands in if no single-tag songs were picked). Overlaps are still named in the results copy.

Option 2 (half-weight): each overlap pick adds half a point to both its bands, so it nudges the tally and percentage a little without overriding the distinctive picks.

No strong preference on our end — whichever is cleaner for you to implement. Flagging it because otherwise the overlaps can inflate everyone's percentage toward the ceiling, or produce a three-overlap-only tie, so it's worth being deliberate.
